

Saguni Safari Lodge

A charming tented retreat located in the Khwai Concession of Botswana's Okavango Delta. Nestled among mature riparian trees, the lodge overlooks the picturesque Mbudi Lagoon, offering guests a serene and immersive experience in one of Africa's most wildlife-rich regions. The name 'Saguni,' derived from the local Bushman language, aptly translates to "an area with an abundance of game and spectacular sights," reflecting the lodge's prime location for exceptional wildlife viewing. Accommodations include 13 Forest Tents set beneath the tree canopy and 8 Luxury River Tents positioned along the riverfront, each thoughtfully designed to harmonize with the natural surroundings and provide comfort amid the wilderness.

Guests at Saguni Safari Lodge can partake in a variety of activities that showcase the diverse ecosystems of the Okavango Delta. Daytime game drives offer opportunities to observe iconic African wildlife such as lions, cheetahs, leopards, wild dogs, elephants, buffaloes, hippos, and giraffes. For a unique perspective, traditional mokoro excursions navigate the tranquil waterways, allowing close encounters with aquatic life and bird species. Evening game drives reveal the nocturnal side of the bush, while cultural visits to nearby San communities provide insights into local traditions and lifestyles. The lodge's elevated bar and central fire pit serve as communal spaces where guests can relax and share stories, all while enjoying panoramic views of the lagoon and its inhabitants.
