KISAWA

Whale Shark Ocean Safari

SEASON

All year round.

DIVING QUALIFICATIONS

Snorkeling or freediving where comfortable, or observe from the research vessel.

BRIEFING

Kisawa guests are exclusively invited to join the Bazaruto Center for Scientific Studies marine research team on an operational whale shark monitoring expedition within the greater Bazaruto Seascape. The experience provides a rare behind-the-scenes insight into authentic marine science and the conservation work dedicated to understanding and protecting these remarkable animals.

Since September 2025, BCSS has documented an unprecedented series of whale shark sightings in the greater Bazaruto Seascape. They are the first recorded by our research programme in more than eight years, raising the interest of scientists across the globe. As the planet's largest fish and one of its most endangered, these gentle individuals provide a new and unique window into the region's changing seascape.

Subject to environmental conditions, guests will be invited to observe or assist with whale shark photo-identification underwater (snorkelling or free-diving), in careful proximity to these gentle giants.

€2,300++ for 1 to 6 persons.
