Safaris with a Purpose 2025

Giving Back

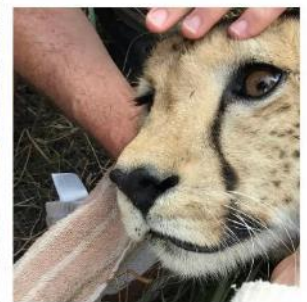

For many people a safari to Africa is a once in a lifetime experience, a #bucketlist holiday. Since 2005 Morukuru Family in South Africa has welcomed guests into their exclusive-use houses in a private concession inside the malaria-free Madikwe Game Reserve. Most of our guests are families travelling with (young) children. Quite often multi-generation families too, when the Grandparents take their children and their grandchildren on safari. A lot of our guests are particularly interested in 'giving back'. They feel privileged to be able to enjoy a safari and want to contribute not just to nature conservation, but also to the local communities around Madikwe Game Reserve. And that is where Morukuru Goodwill Foundation steps in.

Morukuru Goodwill Foundation

Founded by the owners of Morukuru Family in 2007, the Morukuru Goodwill Foundation supports the local community in nearby Molatedi village as well as various research projects in Madikwe Game Reserve.

We work closely together with the Parks Board, and Morukuru Goodwill Foundation pitches in when Parks Board budget falls short and (urgent) conservation work is required. Our main focus is on supporting Rhino protection, but we also assist with various other (costly) conservation efforts such as Wild dog collaring, Cheetah collaring, Lion collaring or contraception and Rhino notching/chipping. In certain circumstances we also assist wounded animals that require immediate veterinarian assistance. And so much more.

Morukuru Goodwill Foundation also supports researchers active in specific fields, such as Rob Harrison White, a dedicated researcher and specialist in Predator management with an exceptional knowledge specifically about Jackal populations.

Supporting the local community

Morukuru Family specialises in family safaris and many of our guests ask us if there is anything they can bring to support the local school and community. The Molatedi school is frequently visited by our guests and our lodge management seeks to match the interest or expertise of the guests with the needs of the school. For example, an entrepreneur in vegetable seeds introduced vegetable seeds for the school garden. Another guest, working with a sports clothing brand, brought soccer sport outfits for the children, and a dentist did a presentation for the school kids on dental hygiene and supplied dental materials.

Our guests frequently choose to donate money and we buy the necessary schoolbooks which the guests can then take to the school themselves. We have also seen children doing special fundraising projects at their schools at home, before they go to Africa or after they have returned, and we will make sure that the children can hand over their donation to the specific project they support.

To make sure that donations are spent the way they were intended, either conservation work or school materials, all guest donations are processed by Morukuru Goodwill Foundation, so we have full control over the donations we receive and the donations we hand out.

Day four

Wake-up early and drive toward the meeting point with the team of experts for the conservation procedure that needs to happen. This could be Rhino notching, collaring Lion, Cheetah, Wild Dog or similar, depending on what is required. Witness the entire operation from start to finish and be part of it. See the helicopter take off to find the animal, the animal being darted from the helicopter and walk up to the animal once it has been fully anaesthetised. You could very well be asked to assist in keeping the animal cool, or in taking some samples and measurements. After a successful operation the animal will be woken up and you will watch it get back on its feet and walk off. This whole process might take a few hours.

Afterwards you will enjoy a nice breakfast (at the house or in the bush) and you will have time to relax and enjoy the pool. In the afternoon you will enjoy lunch and another afternoon game-drive, followed by dinner.
