SAFETY AND CULTURAL GUIDELINES

To ensure your experience is both safe and enjoyable, we urge you to follow all safety guidelines closely.

- Wear water shoes during low tide to protect your feet and enhance your walking experience on the beach.
- Be mindful of the tidal movements. Walking far from shore during low tide is not advisable due to changing sea conditions.
- Expect to encounter seaweed within the coastal ecosystem, which is an integral part of marine biodiversity.
- Remember to apply sunscreen frequently and opt for comfortable footwear during walking tours.

- Refrain from buying large shells or coral from vendors, as such purchases contribute to the harm of our delicate marine ecosystem.
- Taking shells and corals off the island is not permitted. Such items are subject to confiscation by authorities to preserve our natural heritage.

Zanzibar, a predominantly Muslim island, values modesty and respect in its cultural practices. When visiting Stone Town or local villages, we kindly ask you to observe the following guidelines to honor the local customs:

- Always seek permission from your guide before taking photographs of local people.
- Women should wear attire that covers their knees and shoulders.
- Swimsuits are welcome on the beach and resort premises. However, for your safety and to respect local customs, we ask that you wear modest clothing when visiting villages and the city.

Thank you for respecting Zanzibar's culture and environment.
