LOCATION

Surrounded by stunning scenery, Titilaka is located on a tranquil private peninsula facing the Taquile and Uros islands to the north; the Bolivian Cordillera Real to the East and Lake Titicaca stretching from East to West. An unspoiled corner of the world at nearly 4000 metres above sea level that is renowned for its magical beauty and home to traditional Aymara and Quechua communities.

THE LODGE

Titilaka's architectural concept is closely linked to its special location, starkly positioned between water, mountains and sky. Designed to integrate with the environment, the lodge pays homage to the local communities via artesanal textiles and decorations. The three-storey lodge offers 18 lake-view rooms, 3 lounges, outdoor wrap-around terraces, an overwater deck, and a fully-stocked bar with a large regional wine cellar. At the tip of the peninsula lies the dock, departure point for all island excursions. A bit further you'll find our boat house, the first nautical sports facility on Lake Titicaca.

“Everyone comes to this corner of the world to visit Lake Titicaca’s curious islands, but only guests at Titilaka get floor-to-ceiling views of the lake and its soaring dome of blue sky.”
