For 35 years, Cheli & Peacock Safaris, has operated East African safaris tailored to every traveller's needs. In some cases, our adventurer's want some guidance, so each year we create a small group of signature itineraries to inspire wanderlust. These itineraries are more of a suggestion than a template and can be developed further by our Safari Planners, who are passionate safari experts and can advise explorers on the perfect itinerary according to their interests, group, budget and travel dates.

At the forefront of everything we do is an understanding of sustainable travel, and therefore, we partner with organisations that share our approach to preserve Africa's unique and exceptional biodiversity. We know that our travellers are now far more inclined to stay at small boutique lodges and camps that are giving back to the local community and have a minimal effect on the surrounding environment. We appreciate that while vistas and wildlife are at the forefront of every safari experience, so is the modern visitor's desire to engage, at a deeper level, with the destination and its peoples. We do as much as we can to ensure that each of our guests has nothing but a positive effect on the places they visit, supporting local education programmes, conservation initiatives and development projects that have a lasting effect on those micro-economies, communities and ecosystems.
